

Emerging Markets Index Fund

MARCH 2009

FUND FACT SHEET

Fundamental Indexation™

"Radical in its simplicity"

- Minimizes link between portfolio weight and any over or under valuation
- Identifies the "economic footprint" of each company; selecting, ranking and weighting each by Sales, Cash Flow, Gross Dividends, and Book Value
- Fundamental variables do not depend on fluctuations of market valuation
- Performance less influenced by market "bubbles"
- Avoids overweighting overvalued stocks

Monthly Commentary March 31, 2009

[Apr 7, 2009]—The Class B units outperformed the MSCI EMF Gross Index (CAD) by 2.05% during March and by 3.27% in the past 12 months.

Continued market turmoil seems to have taken a breather this month as investment in equity markets in the Emerging region proved profitable.

In spite of the positive market reaction, economic news was poor in particular with Chinese exports which have fallen 25.7% year over year for the month of February. Additionally, the World Bank cut China's expected growth rate for the year to 6.5%, far below the double digits that was the talk of the town a year ago.

The MSCI EMF closed the month at 570 and, with respect to the commodities (oil, gas, gold, silver, and copper), only oil appreciated for the month.

Emerging Markets Index Fund

Index Performance

The PRO FTSE RAFI Emerging Markets Index Fund is designed to replicate the performance results of the FTSE RAFI™ Emerging Index (net of expenses), which ranks and weights companies, not by market capitalization, but instead by the four fundamental financial data points (cash flow, dividends, book value and revenue). The fundamentally weighted portfolio is rebalanced and reconstituted annually.
